

Job Description: Solar Thermal Installer: (Full Time or Part Time position)

SolarWrights is New England's leading solar hot water installation company and seeks a Massachusetts licensed plumber to install and repair solar hot water systems in western Massachusetts and northern CT. Ideal candidate to have 5 yrs plumbing experience, knowledge of hot water systems, indirect water tank installations, MA and CT license, and the desire to make the world a better place via a strong commitment to renewable energy systems. We seek candidates who are able to work independently, complete high-quality installations, and provide excellent customer service.

Job Responsibilities:

- Take ownership of the project and see that project is completed 100% and to customer's satisfaction.
- Perform installations in a professional manner.
- Mount solar collectors on roofs, hot water tanks in basements, plumbing lines in between, and pump stations.
- Must have knowledge of pumps and plumbing issues.
- Work with project management that has designed the job and created the bill of materials.
- Check to make sure all required components are ready in time for installation date.
- Highlight potential installation problems in advance, and work out issues with the project manager.
- Be neat on the job; leave the worksite as clean if not cleaner than when we arrived.
- Forecast what is required for each job and tool up accordingly.
- Assist with solar electric installations as needed.
- Train junior level installers such that they can learn and be productive on the job.
- Maintain vehicles and tools to keep them in proper working order.
- Highlight opportunities for learning new skills related to solar energy installations, to further your advancement as an installer and manager of installers.
- Must be willing to listen to leftist socialistic propoganda from fellow employees, as well as a lot of save the environment talk.
- Stay happy, and bring up issues that are making you unhappy before they become too serious.
